

CCSEP

She likes to be called Sussy. She knows her diagnosis and feels sad because the disease doesn't have a cure. Even though she has her parents and friends, she feels lonely.

She lives in Genova, Italy, near the sea, which is what she loves the most. She really enjoys swimming on her own, and when she is in the water all bad thoughts go away and she feels light. She really feels happy when is in the sea.

Also, Sussy loves the cinema, because films let her dream. She describes herself as a strong and combative woman.

She was raised in a catholic family, but now she is enchanted by chinese medicine and buddhism. She needs to trust in the health care professionals to face her disease.
