

LM OCTOBER

LM is a woman facing breast cancer for the second time. First she faced the illness 20 years ago. She lives in the next town, she has no family close by, because her relatives moved far from here a long time ago, so it gets difficult for her to come for treatment. Transportation has become an issue.

She is still working with no retirement plans and she is constantly worried about treatment interfering with her work. She tries to schedule appointments ahead, she talks to her boss and colleagues, but she fears it can go on for months so it can be a burden to others.

She doesn't want people to "sugar coat" the truth, she wants them to be honest and upfront.